Mediators Have Reached Point of Discussion As How Best to Set Up New Provisional Government in Mexico—Deliberations Reported As Being Entirely Peaceful Thus Far.

NIAGARA FALLS, Canada, May 27. (Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)—Actual terms and details of the plans of the South American mediators for the pacification of Mexico are now under discussion between the mediators and the representatives of the United States and Mexico, was the declaration made last night by Joseph Hucker Lamar, associate justice of the United States Supreme Court and one of the representatives of the United States in the mediation conference.

While Judge Lamar would not divulge any of the plans proposed he stated that an early agreement was anticipated. It is understood that among the vital points which the mediators have reached is the manner in which the Huerta regime will give way to a new provisional government.

Judge Lamar stated also that there has been absolutely no disagreement between the members of the commission in session here, although many points have been raised and discussed without any definite settlement.

The statement that General Zapata is a bandit and a freebooter is emphatically denied by his representatives, who declare that their leader cherishes high ideals and is a patriot of the first water.

The activities of the Zapatistas during the past few weeks have caused them to be reckoned with as a prominent factor in the Mexican situation at the present time and an effort will be made to ascertain whether or not Zapata is in any manner affiliated with Generals Carranza and Villa.

OAKLAND, May 27. (Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)—Several grammar school educators in Oakland have been lost to the city of Oakland, and the Oakland school officials have concluded that the Mexican rebels have appropriated the education for their own use.

The educators are in the form of text books which were to be used in the Oakland schools during the winter term. The order for the books was placed with a New York house last fall and as a matter of economy it was decided to send the books across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. It was figured that forty per cent of the freight cost would be saved in this way.

After arriving in Mexico the educators discovered that the publisher's house has notified the school board that the books have probably been confiscated by the Mexican rebels. The shipment is valued at $100,000.

Desha, pastor of the church, thinks that his choir will again show up as the best of them all, and many who have heard them sing lately agree with him.

LAST RITES ARE HELD

Body of Late Empress of Japan Laid at Rest Near the Imperial Mausoleum

TOKIO, May 26. (Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)—When the casket containing the body of Empress Dowager Haruko was laid away today in a plot of ground, at Momoyama, near the mausoleum of Emperor Mutshu-hito, the simple act marked the conclusion of a series of remarkable ceremonies in honor of the dead.

Two days ago, in this city, were held the funeral rites proper, which included a poignant unrequited in solemn grandeur since that following the death of the late Empress.

A million torches illuminated the city when the body of the Empress Dowager was borne through the streets in a beautiful funeral car drawn by white oxen.

Many Americans Attend.

Practically the entire American colony viewed the procession from various points of vantage. It is a rule that no Japanese subjects may look upon a royal funeral from elevated points, whether the royalities be dead or alive. In strict observance of this, every door and window above the first floor along the funeral route was closed and dark.

The ceremonies were the culmination of a series of services held daily since the official death of the Empress Dowager April 13. Her actual death occurred two days earlier at Numa-dai, but tradition prescribes that no member of the Imperial family can die outside the capital, so the body of the Empress was conveyed to Tokio, and driven smartly to the Aoyama Palace in a closed private carriage. At the palace she "officially" died a few hours later.

Special Temple Built.

In the six weeks since then, a special temple was erected on a large military field, southwest of the city, where the main funeral service was held. In the morning the service of "installation of the spirit" was performed with great ceremony. The Empress, the Emperor, Princes and Princesses of the blood were present to pray before the shrine.

By noon crowds, augmented by thousands from the country, filled the streets. The people stood for hours waiting for the cortege.

At dusk when the illumination of the route had been completed the Imperial coffin was placed in the funeral car at Aoyama Palace, and the procession formed, with a large military force at its head. Amid dull yellow and white banners and torches, came the funeral commissioners, accompanied by their secretaries, and court servants dressed in ancient robes. Interspersed were men bearing evergreen trees.

Streets Carpeted With Sand.

The advance of the cortege was almost noiseless, the streets having been covered with a thick layer of sand. The funeral cortege was headed by the Imperial household, followed by the Imperial household, a striking figure in white, whose way was emblazoned by torches.

Three white oxen in reserve plodded ahead of the two which were yoked to the funeral car. The car was of cubic form, with its interior exquisitely lacquered, and inlaid with ivory. In the chestnut, bamboo blinds hung from the square openings, and brass curtains from the sides. The oxen were covered with a rare white cloth and their horns were wound with material of the same texture. The people bowed and wept as the Imperial hearse advanced.

Later came hundreds of priests, and bearers of the court palanquin, and banners, and of many colored streamers and banners. The oxen were blood, each with his retinue, holders of high Imperial orders, lords-in-waiting, members of the Diet and several regiments of military and police.

Royal Throne in Temple.

A sacred gateway marked the entrance to the temple ground. The Empress and Emperor had been laid out in state, and were seated on a throne near the principal shrine, while the diplomatic corps, including George W. Guthrie, the American Ambassador, had also taken their places in a reserved section.

Standing watch fires, in imitation of those used in the Imperial court yards in ancient days, made up of pine logs, were placed in various parts of the temple in iron baskets set on tripods.

When the funeral car had been drawn up before the chief shrine the dirge was chanted and food offerings were given. Other offerings included gold, silver, diamonds, silk and silk thread, all placed in a box made of willow branches.

MAJOR TO MAKE

Chief Executive Makes Announcement at Luau Given for Returned Delegates

(From Wednesday Advertiser.)

An enjoyable luau was given last night at the residence of Manuel Rich, at Kamehameha IV road, in honor of Deputy Sheriff Charles H. Rose and James R. Kaula, who returned yesterday from San Francisco, where they attended the biennial convention of the Hawaiian High Court of the Pacific Coast of the Ancient Order of Foresters. Rose and Kaula were delegates from Court Honolulu, No. 6000, the oldest court of its order in the Pacific and of which King Kalanikou was the first chief ranger and past chief.

The luau was a surprise to the returning delegates. They were told that through some slip or other a meeting of the court had been called for last night at Manuel Rich's home. The delegates appeared to report their doings at the convention. They found long tables laden down with a sumptuous feast.

Mayor Joseph J. Fern, who is a member of the order and of this local court, was on hand. The mayor is not to be caught napping when a luau is in progress and last night he was the very first Forester on hand.

When the luau was at the same of the progress Mayor Fern was called upon to speak. He said that he was a member of the order and of this local court, and that he was not to be caught napping when a luau is in progress and last night he was the very first Forester on hand.

"Fellow Foresters, and everybody else," said his Honor between sips of beer, "I let Charlie go to the Coast. I did so because I wanted him to have a long rest. At the next meeting of the board of supervisors I will nominate Charles H. Rose, our deputy sheriff, to become sheriff of the city of Honolulu. He will take the place of Sheriff William D. Jarrett, whom my Governor, Mr. Lucius E. Pinkham, on my recommendation, recently appointed to become high sheriff in place of my friend William Jarrett."

After this long speech, for his Honor, the mayor subsided, but not so his engagement with the luau, which lasted until good people had to get to bed.

Affair in Celebration of Home Rule Victory—Send Cables to Asquith and Redmond.

(From Wednesday Advertiser.)

One hundred loyal Irish-Americans assembled in the makai pavilion of the Young Hotel last night to arrange plans for the celebration of Ireland's freedom and to draft congratulatory messages to be sent to Premier Asquith and John E. Redmond.

It was a happy band of sons and daughters of Irish that gathered. Irish Catholics and Irish Protestants alike gave their views on the granting of home rule in Ireland and peace and harmony prevailed.

John A. Hughes was unanimously elected chairman of the meeting while Jack D. Cleary was likewise elected secretary. A special committee consisting of Harry Murray, John Bowler and Frank O'Connell drafted and cabled the following messages of congratulations:

Premier Asquith, London, Eng. "Irish-Americans, residents of Hawaii, to-day have heartily congratulated you on your glorious victory."

"John E. Redmond, London. "In Ireland's name we Irish-Americans, residents of Hawaii, congratulate you on your glorious victory."

After considerable discussion it was decided to give a banquet and ball to honor of the great event in Ireland's history. Chairman Hughes appointed the following committee with full powers to act and finance the affair: Charles J. McCarthy, Dr. J. J. Carey, J. J. Sullivan, Charles Chillingworth and John Duggan. The date of the celebration will be announced later.

After the regular business for which the meeting was called had been transacted, Chairman Hughes called upon several of those present to give their views on Ireland's victory.

The chairman, in an eloquent address, briefly outlined Ireland's history and told of the struggle that has been made for the past hundred years by the sturdy sons of Erin.

Robert Anderson, who claimed the land of the heather as his place of birth, stated that Scotchmen the world over were rejoicing over Ireland's victory. V. L. Stevenson, who stated that his Irish ancestry dated back three hundred years, gave a short and eloquent address. John Bowler told of a recent visit to Ireland and the conditions as he found them there. He briefly outlined the history of Daniel O'Connell and vividly portrayed a few chapters in that great Irish patriot's life.

Patrick McInerney recited a patriotic Irish poem that met with a storm of applause. J. J. Sullivan and Frank Hughes also made earnest and eloquent addresses.

It was a joyous gathering of the sons of Erin and the unanimity of feeling evidenced augurs well for the celebration to be given shortly.

NAVY OFFICER DIVORCED

INTER-ISLAND COMPANY COMPLAINS

Of Adhesive Plaster Laid on Surface of Wharf.

(From Wednesday Advertiser.)

Col. C. J. McCarthy, James Walcott, T. M. Church and J. W. Caldwell, all of the Inter-Island Company, appeared before the commission and complained that the Territory has evil designs on his company. Several persons who stood on pier 14 while the steamer was going out the other day had to leave their shoes there and go up town barefoot. The trouble is that the asphalt coating on the pier has too much oil in it. McCarthy said that besides the 20000 contents of a good many bags of rice, sugar and other freight had been ruined by the asphalt, but along the extra weight added to the bags that the company gets no extra pay for handling. The chairman was ordered to investigate and render "first aid."

To Regulate Buoy.

A. E. Arledge, inspector in the light house service, informed the board that the United States government takes cognizance only of the location of buoys and moorings where there is conflict with government regulations. He said that so far as the light house service is concerned the authority of the harbor commissioners will be recognized in the regulation of buoy emplacement. On motion Caldwell was directed to prepare a new regulation governing the location of buoys and moorings.

Letters from most of the new wharfers at Class B wharves led Church to remark "That wharfer at Kalia is onto his job."

Bottled Cause Worry.

If the demurrage on a shipment of bottles from San Francisco that has lain unclaimed for several weeks on one of the wharves is not paid and the bottles removed the board will not let the attorney general to sue the consignee. The Matson Navigation Company is worrying about the freight, but the commissioners said that demurrage charges are a first lien on any freight and must be paid first.

Consideration of the offer of the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company to lease the marine railway for six months at $150 per month was deferred until next Tuesday. The board requested A. E. Kennedy, president of the company to appear before the board in regard to this proposition.

Seek Data From Mosher.

The board will direct Capt. Mosher to keep an accurate record of the tides of the water and direction of winds at Kalia Bay wharf in order that they will be in position to discuss intelligently any troubles that may arise. Inspectors who have been sweeping the new channel have found several points that are too high. It may be several weeks before all of these bumps are smoothed off.

What to do with the marine railway will be the chief topic for discussion next Tuesday.

QUESTION OF TEACHERS TAKEN UP BY BOARD

(From Wednesday Advertiser.)

Most of the session of the school commissioners yesterday was taken up with the question of appointments of teachers for the new school year, which will begin in September. Superintendent H. W. Kinney stated yesterday that he expected the commissioners to finish their work today.

At the meeting today it is expected that the question of whether Prof. Edgar Wood, principal of the Normal School, should be retained in the employ of the department, will be taken up for final solution.

The commissioners yesterday resolved themselves into two committees, one of which will today consider the application of Miss Etta Davis, a former Normal School teacher, to be reimbursed for lack of salary while the other committee will take up the Dawson charges preferred by Attorney C. W. Ashford on Monday against Mr. Wood.

This committee will also take up the question of the appointment of teachers for the Waialea Boys' Industrial School. The first committee will consider the appointment of teachers for the various high schools of the department in the Territory.

It was decided yesterday to establish the Kaula high and grammar school as one institution at Lihue, the county seat of the Garden Island. The commissioners agreed to provide three teachers for this new institution the principal to be appointed shortly in order that he may begin the organization of the studies and other subjects necessary for the proper conduct of the school.

Superintendent Kinney expects to leave shortly for the island of Hawaii, where he will inspect more thoroughly the West Hawaii government schools.

ENJOY SOCIAL VISIT; POLITICS ARE AVOIDED

WASHINGTON, May 27. (Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt called on President Wilson yesterday and stayed afterward that he had a very pleasant social visit with the President and that they had talked about everything but politics.

Speaking at the Progressive headquarters last night, Roosevelt said that he would be found taking his part in the campaign this fall. He praised the Progressives in congress for the stand they have taken in various matters.

Before the National Geographic Society Roosevelt declared that he had put the "Duyviser River" on the map and challenged all cartographers and geographers of the world to disprove his achievement.

Barge Line for Hawaiian Sugar

Relieve Congestion—Notes from the Zone.

PANAMA, May 26. (Stoppage of the Tehuantepec Railway route across Mexico has increased traffic across the Isthmus of Panama that the Panama Railroad is almost unable to cope with the situation. Especially every car loaded onto the service and still mountains of freight at the terminals show no signs of diminution. Several large freighters are seen daily at anchor in the Pacific rendered at Kalia waiting for a chance to get to the wharf to unload their cargoes that are destined finally to reach New York and other Eastern United States ports.

At the time the route across Mexico was interrupted there were several ships waiting in the harbor of Salina Cruz. Every effort was made to unload the ships and get away before the port was closed, but several of the vessels were unable to get their cargoes on the wharf in time. In consequence they sailed for Panama with parts of their cargoes.

The arrival of the sugar ships of the Hawaiian-American line led the Panama Canal authorities to start a barge line through the canal in hope of relieving the situation.

The pontoon bridge across the canal at Frijoles has been swung into position and in future will be used by the Panama Railroad in operating its trains on the west side of the canal.

Want No Strangers.

An incident recently came to light which clearly shows the determination of the San Blas Indian of Panama to maintain his foothold in the fertile territory in which he lives as well as his desire to maintain purity of blood. A short time ago the chief of the tribe living at Rio Rialto, on the San Blas coast, ordered the burial alive of an infant a few days old because it was the offspring of a negro and a woman member of the tribe. The negro was ordered to leave the country. The old chief made it clear that the day after the white man or negro acquires a foothold among them that day will mark the beginning of the loss of their independence. Strangers who come into the Indian territory are not always treated kindly. Recently a party of white men appeared in the San Blas country to work a gold mine which they had been told existed in the interior. The Indians resented their coming and drove them out of the country.

Colony Club in Zone.

Canal employees, in anticipation of the time when they return to the United States, have organized a Colony Club with a view of forming a farm and industrial colony in one of the Southern States. The object is to undertake the investigation of numerous offers for farm lands and industrial opportunities that are constantly being held out to those who are about to leave the Isthmus. The community idea seems strongly in favor among the canal workers and it is expected that several such communities will result from the investigations undertaken by the Colony Club.

Old Spanish Fieldplace.

W. C. Johnston, mining engineer, in charge of a mining property in the Province of Varazquez, Republic of Panama, has reported to the Panama government that he recently discovered an old Spanish canon that probably has been on the Isthmus since the days of the Spanish occupation. The canon, he says, was found on a bluff near the mouth of the Rio Chiriqui and probably formed part of a battery that at one time commanded that river. It is believed there are other field places in the vicinity. A search is being made for them, and if found it is planned to mount them as an exhibit at the forthcoming exposition to be held in Panama next year coincident with the formal opening of the Panama Canal.

Lost in the Jungle.

Private Ball, of Company B of the First Battalion of the Tenth Infantry, stationed at Camp Otis, recently was lost and has been reported officially as missing. Ball disappeared while his company was making a practice march through the rough country south of Panama City. The entire battalion made the march. A portion of Company B, under the command of Captain Eskridge, was lost in the jungle, but finally found its way back to camp after having to cut its way through the dense underbrush for nearly ten miles. Private Ball was part of this detail.

Helen Miguel and Mary Benny added much to the merriment of a quiet morning in the police court yesterday by describing a hair pulling match in which they engaged Monday night. After listening to both versions of the affair, Judge Monarrat found both contestants guilty and fined them each two dollars without the usual costs.

INVESTIGATOR TO BE LOCAL ATTORNEY

Department of Justice Will Not Send Anyone from Washington to Look Into and Report on Various McCarn Matters—Name of Chosen One Not Yet Announced.

(Special to The Advertiser.)

WASHINGTON, May 26. While the department of justice has determined to name a special investigator to report on the facts in connection with the McCarn case, the office of the federal district attorney of Hawaii, and will announce the name of the investigator probably this week, the report that someone will be sent to Hawaii from here has been denied.

The special investigator, whoever he may be, will be selected from among the lawyers resident within the Hawaiian jurisdiction. The instructions to be sent him will be, in effect, to make a thorough investigation and a complete report, both on the facts of the case and the circumstances which have led to complaints and charges being filed here and on the surrounding circumstances.

Ft. Shafter's Magic Well, Fed Cement, Flows Statuary

Cemetery Forms on Low Lands

Near Geyser—Landscape is Littered with Mosses.

It's no use—that gusher at Fort Shafter can't be muted.

Thomas Sedgwick of the public works department, who for weeks has been trying to get a strangle hold on it, is now about ready to admit defeat. At intervals throughout the period of his struggle with the well he has been jamming all sorts of things down its throat and it has been jamming them right back at him.

First he tried ordinary plugs, but they had no effect whatever. Then he poured a good-sized cargo of rice into it, and with the inward exultation that one feels after evolving a brilliant idea, confidently waited for the rice to puff up and do its work. The rice swelled up, all right, and it also came up, with the result that within the next few days the landscape in the vicinity of the geyser was flooded with bloated rice. Chinese farmers on the flats below the well soon became owners of rice plantations for the seed began to grow. (It's an ill well that flows nobody good, thought the Chinese.)

This experience proved to Mr. Sedgwick that rice was not the answer. He then tried cement, but that also failed. The soundness of his theory as far as expansion was involved, was too fine, so he began to feed the well dried apples. On this investment he got enormous returns and the well didn't even have a take-off. Many blocks of dried apples formed in the nearby fields, then subsided in the sunshine.

For some time thereafter Mr. Sedgwick did nothing but pour down the well all sorts of things. That of the silence came another idea. Powdered cement was the stuff that would cork the geyser.

Mr. Sedgwick was next discovered pouring cement into the well in sufficient quantities to build a solid column of cement from the center of the earth to the top of the pipe.

The column did not form, however, and so its work. The idea swelled up, and he began to wonder what had become of the cement. Light dawned on the mystery when he noted the appearance in the vicinity, as if by magic, of pieces of fantastic statuary. Within a week all the surface croppings of a cemetery sprang up on the Chinese farmers' rice fields and the country round about was studded with mosses. Discouraged but undaunted Mr. Sedgwick is trying another thinking spell.
